July 29~31, 2002, Hitotsubashi-kinenkoudou, Tokyo, Japan

This dress was designed with the image of a "vortex." Blue felt was used for the dress material. For the switch seamline of vortex patterns, white organdie was used with wide frills. Attached to those frills were thin felted layers of white and blue wool, which signify white foam. Overall, the force of the vortex and fragility of white foam are the key in expressing this garment design.
